THE STATE FISH HATCHERY

The Centre County Site Selected by Commissioner Meehan.

OUR PEOPLE MUST RAISE $1500

To Purchase the Land on Which Hatchery is to be Located—Meeting Held Saturday Night and Committees Appointed.

GREAT BENEFIT TO CENTRE COUNTY

Word was received here Saturday that State Fish Commissioner William E. Meehan had decided to locate the new State Fish Hatchery on the site recently inspected by him near Pleasant Gap. All the state asks is that our citizens donate the land required. There is about 16 acres of land and the amount to be raised to purchase same is about $1500.00. Immediately on receipt of this word there was a hurrying and surrying among the member's of the Sportsman's League and others interested in securing this institution for our community. For the locating of the Hatchery cannot help but be of great benefit to the town and county.

The matter was taken in hand and a meeting called for 7 o'clock in the office of the Keystone Gazette. Judge Love, presided, and T. H. Harter was made secretary. Judge Love tersely stated the object of the meeting. The Fish Hatchery will surely come here provided we raise the amount desired to purchase the land not later than Tuesday night. He explained the many benefits that would result to our citizens from having such an institution in our midst.

Mr. Harter stated that options had been secured on the land desired and that all that was required was the money.

The meeting became very enthusiastic over the project and Robert F. Hunter moved that those present be appointed a committee to further the success of the project. Motion carried.

The committee is as follows Judge John G. Love, John M. Shugert, T. H. Harter, John Knisely, John J. Bower, Joseph Rightnour, Joseph L. Montgomery, B. D. Tate, Earle C. Tuten, Hard P. Harris, Robert F. Hunter, Robert Montgomery, James C. Furst, Horton S. Ray, George Beezer.

It was the concensus of opinion that the amount could be easily raised. John M. Shugert was elected Treasurer of the fund and the following committee on Solicitation appointed: J. L. Montgomery, chairman, Hard P. Harris, Robert Hunter, John Knisely, John Bower, Joseph Rightnour, T. H. Harter, Robert Montgomery, James Furst, B. D. Tate and George R. Meek.

It is the intention of the State Fish Commission to put twenty men at work on this ground not later than August 1, if everything is satisfactory and they will begin at once transferring the spawn from the hatchery at Allentown.

The land in question is located on the east side and along the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad, and near the Pleasant Gap station. It consists of three tracts, to wit: Mrs. Siney Hoy, 2 acres; Mrs. Marilla Dawson, 8¼ acres, Mrs. Laura Williams 5 acres, making a total of 15¼ acres. On the tract are located two never failing springs of water with a temperature of 43 degrees the year around both of which furnish abundant fall as well as an abundant supply for the purposes intended. On the west side of the tract and along the railroad is Logan Branch while on the east side is the Penns Valley pike, one of the finest drives in the state. It is an ideal location.

The State Fish Commission will make a park of the grounds, by planting trees, building mounds, erecting fountains and interlining it with delightful driveways, walks and cosy corners for the enjoyment of the public and the accommodation of students of this most interesting branch of nature.

Buildings will be erected and twenty or more men employed with a monthly pay roll of $1,000. This will add financially to our community.

Every third year the trout from the hatchery will be put in the streams hereabout. Our streams will therefore abound with fish and hundreds of sportsmen will be attracted annually. Summer boarders will be attracted here and they will leave their money here. It will add increased business to the country in the way of travel, railroad transportation, etc. This means an increased demand for local products and increased prices for the same.

As an attraction, such a station will be a strong rival of any of the other artificial or natural attractions of Centre county. It will cover at least seven acres of ground, containing acquaria, tanks and ponds, these filled with living fish of the most gorgeous and beautiful species known to man, of all ages and all sizes, with their eggs and young in various stages of development.

By all means let us have the hatchery.

Boy Meets Terrible Death.

Richard Schmidt, aged 17 years, Saturday afternoon with his father Charles Schmidt, of Elmira, N. Y., boarded an eastbound freight train at the water station east of Tyrone with the intention of beating their way to Harrisburg. About 2 o'clock when near Birmingham the boy lost his hold and was thrown falling on the tracks. The wheels caught him at the hips crushing him in two. The remains were brought to this station by the work train and Dr. B. J. Fulkerson summoned, but his services were not needed, the young man having died on the way to the depot. The body was given in charge of Undertaker Graham who had it prepared for burial, and later turned over to the poor authorities. Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock interment was made in Tyrone cemetery.. The father, Charles Schmidt, a few months ago buried his wife at Elmira, N. Y., and shortly after with his son, his only child, left Elmira, and went to Jersey Shore, where he and his son worked for a short time as laborers. Desiring to obtain employment elsewhere they were on that mission when the young man lost his life.—Tyrone Herald.

Man Arrested May be Myers.

A Wellsboro dispatch says a man was arrested at Danville Friday who seems to answer the description of Edward Troinkle, alias Myers the alleged murderer of Mrs. Payne of Tioga county. A special to the Ccruing Leader says the man in custody was first noticed at a little town called Washingtonville, located near here. He was biding in the woods for three or four days, until a story got started that a wild man was inhabiting this vicinity. On Wednesday morning the supposed wild man came cautiously out of a piece of dense woods and made his way to a farm house where he inquired his way to Danville. Instead of taking the main road to Danville he sulked in the fields and on the edge of the woods. The telephoned on to Danville notifying the chief of police that a suspicious character was on his way there and asking for his co-operation in catching him. Then the constable gave chase, and shadowed him until the Danville police arrived and he was taken into custody.

The sheriff of Tioga county has been in communication with the Danville authorities regarding the supposed captose of Edward Troinkle, alias Myers, and as the result of his investigation is much elated. He says there is much probability that this is the alleged murderer.

TAKEN TO WILLIAMSPORT.

Centre County Post Office Robbers to Be Given a Hearing There.

The four, now famous, Centre County bandits, James Lewis, James Ryan, William Palmer and Samuel Shireman, who have been confined in the county jail ever since their capture by Sheriff Taylor and his posse in the Seven Mountains a few weeks ago were taken to Williamsport Wednesday where they will be given a hearing in the United States Court. The officer who had them in charge is Deputy United States Marshall Lapp, Ex-Sheriff of Juniata county. Those who accompanied the prisoners from here were Officer George Jodon, Philip D. Foster, County Commissioner Philip Meyer. Quite a number of witnesses in the case from Penns Valley were also in the party, among the number being Walter Garrity and A. E. Zeigler.

If sufficient evidence is found against the prisoners they will be confined in jail at Williamsport until October when they will be taken to Scranton for trial.

The jail officials here are very glad to be rid of them as they were very unruly customers.

Fish Hatchery A Sure Thing.

We are glad to announce that the full amount required to bring the new State Fish Hatchery to Centre county has been cheerfully subscribed by our citizens and the location of this important State institution in Centre county is now an assured fact.

This is good news, and we have no doubt that our citizens will never regret their action in the matter.

Work on the grounds and buildings will begin August 1 and the new hatchery will be the largest in the state.

THE ANNUAL RE-UNION

Of Company E, 45th Regiment Penna. Volunteers.

HELD AT THE HOME OF W. H. FRY

Near Pine Grove Mills on Saturday July 18th—It Was 42nd Event of this Kind and Was Most Enjoyable.

ONE HUNDRED PEOPLE ATTENDED

The beautiful country home of Capt. W. H. Fry, located about two miles and a half from Pine Grove Mills was the scene on Saturday July 18th of a most interesting festivity. It was the occasion of the 42nd annual re-union of Co. E. of the 45th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Although the weather was unusually bad, yet in the neighborhood of one hundred guests were present to enjoy the unbounded hospitality of Capt. Fry and his estimable wife. The visitors were met at the station at Pine Grove Mills with carriages and driven to Capt. Fry's home where unbounded hospitality awaited them.

Of Co. E, there were just nine members present, there were quite a number of soldiers from other regiments and the balance of the guests were friends and neighbors.

W. H. Musser, of Bellefonte, 1st Sargeant of Co. E., was present and was chosen Master of Ceremonies for the day. At noon there was a splendid dinner served such as only Capt. Fry and his wife know how to get up. All the delicacies of the season were to be found there and they say that there was enough left over after the dinner to supply just such another crowd.

The days exercises were opened by a prayer by Rev. C. T. Aikens, of Pine Grove Mills. Everybody joined in singing America. Capt. Fry in a neat cut speech bade everybody welcome and said if they did not see what they wanted, to ask for it. This was responded to by Rev. Aikens in a few well chosen words..

Then followed a selection of patriotic war songs after which came the presentation of a beautiful silk umbrella to Capt. Fry by Comrade J. C. Sowers. This created a good deal of fun as the Captain had a relic of the war, an umbrella he carried to former re-unions so the comrades thought it well to furnish a better one.

After dinner the Captain set up the cigars to the old veterans who returned to the big walled tent in the yard where the exercises were held and there enjoyed a smoke and recalled some of the incidents and hardships of war.

Then came the caning. The comrades of Co. E, presented Capt. Fry with a silver headed cane, the speech was made by Comrade S. B. Miller, of Bellefonte, and was responded to by Comrade Sowers, who told some of the many good qualities that Capt. Fry was endowed with, being one of the most enterprising and esteemed citizens, big hearted and kind, not only known in Centre county but all over the state.

Rev. Aikens followed in the same line and paid a glowing tribute to the Captain. Then followed roll call of the original company and many thrilling reminiscences were recalled.

Letters of regret were read from the former Col. James A. Beaver, Rev. Samuel Krider, Mrs. J. A. Adair, J. R. Pheasant, Capt. C. P. W. Jones and Col. Fortney. Gen. Beaver's letter was in part as follows:

My dear Comrades:—

I have your invitation of July 11th, inviting me to the forty-second annual reunion of Company "E", 45th Regiment P. V. I., July 18th instant, at the residence of comrade Fry.

You may be sure that it would give me very great pleasure to meet you and the other comrades of your old Company on that occasion, if it were in my power so do so. I expect to leave for a trip to the Pacific coast, however, on Monday and do not expect to return for several weeks. Please convey to my old comrades my cordial greetings and accept for yourselves my thanks for the invitation to be with you.

I don't remember any special firing, when we were at Fredericksburg, guarding the line of the railroad, but we were there all the same and I remember distinctly that in taking a ride with that pretty young lady who lived on the hill beyond Brooke Station, I came upon an outpost of soldiers who scared me worse than I was ever frightened in battle. I suggest that it might be well, if the Company can't claim any credit for that encounter, to put it somewhere that I may get the credit for it. It fortunately happened that the soldiers whom we encountered were our own people picketing the line of one of the streams on the extreme left flank of Pope's army but I didn't discover that, until it was too late for me to have retreated, in case they had been the other fellows. This was a little escapade that I do not know that I have ever alluded to before but I think I was, for a minute or two, about the worst frightened youngster in the 45th regiment.

I hope you will have a good time and that you will not eat Fry out of house and home.

Very cordially your comrade,

JAMES A. BEAVER.

It was also a sort of a family reunion and a birthday anniversary as the Captain had just reached his 60th milestone. His family remembered him by a splendid office chair and many other presents.

His sisters presented him with a beautiful watch guard on which was engraved his name and a G. A. R, emblem.

Miss Estella Heberling is deserving of special mention for presenting the banner cake on which was inscribed "Co. E, 45 P. V. I. "It was a grand production.

The members of Co. E. present were Capt. Henry Stevens, of Centre Line; Lieut. A. W. Harper, Philipsburg; 1st Sargeant W. H. Musser, Bellefonte; Homer S. Thompson, of Juniata county, Sargeant Major of 45th Regiment; David Love, Bellefonte; James I. Denner, Philipsburg; D. B. Allen, Milesburg; J. G. Heberling, Pine Grove Mills.

At the close of the busy day his friends joined in wishing the Captain a long lease of life to enjoy the affection of his family, the love of his neighbors and the protection of a government which he suffered so much to preserve.

A. W. Harper invited Co. E. to hold their next annual re-union at his residence in Philipsburg. The invitation was accepted.

Stepped on Stick of Dynamite.

TRENTON, N. J., July 21.—An unusually peculiar accident Sunday made necessary the killing of a horse belonging to James H. Romaine, the proprietor of a hotel in this city, while Mr. Romaine and the other occupants of the carriage, to which the horse was attached, had a narrow escape from personal injury. The horse, which was one of a team that was being driven along the road near Ewingville, stepped on a stick of dynamite. The dynamite exploded and blew off one of the horse's hoofs. The vehicle was partly shattered by the explosion, but the occupants were not hurt. The horse's hoof was blown about seventy-five feet and the animal was afterward shot.

The dynamite is supposed to have been a part of some that was being used for the blasting of rock in connection with the building of a macadam road at the point where the accident occurred.

Bitten by a Copperhead.

Mrs. Mary Bennett wife of E. S. Bennett living near Gum Stump above school house crossing was severely bitten by a copperhead snake on last Friday. She was in the hay field where her husband was mowing with the machine. He happened to cut the snake in two pieces when the head part made a spring fastening its fangs into her hand. She took it off when it again sprang at her seizing her hand, this time lapping its body around her arm. It required a great effort to compel the snake to release its hold. Mrs. Bennett has suffered severely from the bite and poison in her system and the physician claim that she is not yet out of danger. Our informant tells us that there is grave apprehension that Mrs. Bennett may not recover.

A Veteran Fire Chief Killed.

Louisville, Ky., July 20.—Major Edward Hughes, Louisville's veteran fire chief, was run over and killed Sunday afternoon by a trolley car. Major Hughes was one of the best known fire chiefs in the country and had been at the head of the Louisville, fire department for twentyfive years until recently when he was retired on half pay. He was a picturesque character and had been a firefighter for more than fifty years. He was on the way to the house of a friend and when he stepped off the car at Beechwood he was run down and killed by a car coming in the opposite direction.

POPE LEO XIII IS DEAD.

The Venerable Head of the Roman Catholic Church Succumb to Illness.

GREAT BATTLE WITH DEATH

Was Only Conscious at Intervals and At Times He Complained of Pain.

CARDINALS AT HIS BEDSIDE

ROME, July 21.—Pope Leo XIII is dead. The last flicker of life expired at four minutes past 4 o'clock Monday afternoon and the pontiff now lies at rest.

The period of over two weeks that Pope Leo passed in the shadow of death, was no less wonderful than his life. His splendid battle against disease was watched the world over with sympathetic admiration and ended only after a series of tremendous efforts to conquer the weakness of his aged frame by the marvelous will power of his mind. The pleuropneumonia, with which his holiness had been suffering, was scarcely so responsible for his death as that inevitable decay of tissue which ensues upon ninety-three years of life. The tested steel which had bent so often before human ills was bound to break at last.

Monday night the emaciated and lifeless frame, which held so brave a spirit, lies on the bed in the vatican beside which almost all the world has prayed. The red damask coverlet rests lightly over the body, the cardinal's scarlet cape is about the shoulders, while on his head has been placed the papal hood of velvet, bordered with ermine.

A white handkerchief is bound about his chin and in the hands, which have blessed so many thousands, has been placed a crucifix. So Pope Leo will remain until today, watched by uniformed officers of the noble guard and rough-clad penitentiaries, who will keep a ceaseless vigil until the burial occurs.

To-day the sacred college of cardinals assembled for the impressive ceremony of officially pronouncing Pope Leo dead. After this sad function has been performed the body will be taken to the small throne room adjoining the death chamber where it will be embalmed. The funeral ceremonies will extend over nine days, the remains being removed to the cathedral of St. Peter, where they will lie in state. The ultimate resting place of the dead pontiff will be in the magnificent Basilica of St. John the Lateran.

Pope Leo's final moments were marked by that same serenity and devotion, and when he was conscious, that calm intelligence which is associated with his twenty-five years' pontificate, His was no easy death. An hour before he died, turning to Dr. Lapponi and his valet, Pio Centra, he murmured, "The pain I suffer is most terrible." Yet, his parting words were not of physical anguish that he suffered, but were whispered benedictions upon the cardinals, on his nephews, who knelt at the bedside and the last look of his almost sightless eyes was towards the great ivory crucifix hanging in the death chamber.

The Cardinal is the exact antithesis of Pope Leo, having none of the late Pontiff's sympathetic and benevolent characteristics. He comes from a Piedmontiese stock, and his nobility is shown in his colleagues or the Romans, and his brusque manner has earned him the title of "The Piedmont Bear."

This is the man who for the time being is practically Pope. It was he who issued the orders to clear the Vatican from intruders and brought tranquility out of the confusion immediately following Pope Leo's death.

The death of the Pontiff occurred at a time when all was singularly calm about the Vatican. Beside the bronze doors which lead to the Vatican some 20 or 30 men and boys and a handfull of gendarmes lazily await the news.

At twenty minutes past four a man dashed madly across St. Peter's square, then quite empty. A second later another followed on a bicycle. Within a few seconds, as if by magic, newspaper men, gendarmes and messengers running, driving and gesticulating, dashed to and from the portal of the Vatican.

Like a wireless message there flashed around the words "He is dead."

The French Ambassador's carriage drove furiously from the Vatican and drew up at a nearby telegraph office. Without waiting for the horses to stop the Ambassador jumped out and notified his goverment of the Pope's death.

There soon followed the Cardinals who, with set faces, drove slowly homeward.

VATICAN CLOSELY GUARDED

Behind the shutters of Pope Leo's room, which still remain closed, all was over. The heavy bronze doors were swung to and entrance to Vatican was only obtainable by knocking at a little wicket, which was closely kept within by the Papal Guard and without by the Italian police.

Ex Postmaster General Smith Replies

Philadelphia, July 21.—Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith has written a letter to Postmaster General Payne, in reply to a communication sent to the postmaster general by John R. Proctor, president of the civil service commission, in which the latter criticizes the administration of ex Postmaster General Smith during his term of office.

The point to which Mr. Smith takes exception is Mr. Proctor's attack on the establishment of free delivery and the alleged "packing" of the rural free delivery division of the department in anticipation of its classification. On the first point, Mr. Smith says the law provides for the classified postoffices, when the receipts reach $10,000 a year and on the second point, he states that the statute, not the department, put the clerks on new free delivery offices into the classified service.

Board Hurled by a Saw Kills a Mill Man

A fatal accident occurred Saturday afternoon at the mills of the Portland Lumber company at Portland Mills. Fred Brooks, an employe of the plant, was struck on the head by a piece of plank, which was hurled from an edger saw. The board was thrown with tremendous velocity, says the DuBois Courier, and fractured the unfortunate man's skull.

Brooks lived several hours after the accident, and preparations were made to remove him to the Ridgway hospital but just before the time set to start the injured man expired.

The accident was caused by a board "buckling" against the saw, not a rare occurrence around mills and a means of injury to many men.

Epworth League Convention Closed.

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—With seven meetings Sunday night, all splendidly attended, the sixth international convention of the Epworth League, which Dr. J. F. Berry and other officers of the league say has been the greatest and most successful in the league's history, came to a close. Denver was decided upon for the next convention.

The same programme was followed at all of the meetings Sunday night. Addresses were made on three subjects, "Christ, Our King;" "His Conquering Kingdom," and "My Place in the Army," followed by a "Waiting hour for the descent of the Holy Spirit."

The official resolutions of the convention were also adopted by each meeting.

Ground to Death Seeking a Refuge.

Howard Stroup, 55 years old, of Mill Creek, was run over by a freight train on the Pennsylvania Railroad Sunday night and was instantly killed.

To get shelter from a storm that was raging at the time Stroup crept under a box car which was attached to a through freight train, which had pulled in on a siding to await the passage of a passenger train. Starting without warning, the train ground Stroup to pieces.

Big Real Estate Transfer.

J. C. Rowe, of this place, and John VanPelt, of Bellefonte, have purchased from Louisa Atherton, a tier of lots fronting on East Pine street, beyond Eleventh, 615 feet, and over 200 feet deep. The new owners purpose to lay the plot out into lots and put them on the market. They front on the trolley line which makes them desirable for building purposes.—Philipsburg Ledger.

Robbed of $17.00.

A man who gave his name as Stephen Suffage, of Morrisdale, was found by Officer Sankey Friday morning, and who had an ugly cut above his right eye and was other wise pounded about the head. He claimed that he was way laid not far from the N. Y. C. R. R., station, across the creek, and the sum of $17.00 taken from him. No clue has been found yet as to who done the deed.

Bitten By Half a Rattler.

William Sleigh, of Gearhartville, supervisior of Decatur township, was bitten by a rattlesnake while picking berries near Sandy Ridge on Thursday morning last. It appears that he had already cut the snake in two when he went to feeling in the grass to get the rattles from the snake, when he was bitten on the hand. He is at the hospital, where he is being cared for.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by J. W. DARROW,
Press Correspondent New York State Grange

A BEAUTIFUL STRUCTURE.

Memorial Building at Famed Chautauqua For Grangers.

What the Order of Patrons of Husbandry in New York state has long hoped for is about to be realized in the erection of a beautiful structure at Chautauqua lake as grange headquarters. Last year the Pomona grange of Chautauqua county acquired a very desirable building site, and now, through the generosity of Mr. Cyrus E. Jones of Jamestown, N. Y., there is to be erected on the site and facing Chautauqua lake a grange building which shall be a memorial to the late Rev. Emory Jones, father of the donor of the building, whose name is a household word in Chautauqua county. Already the work has been begun. The building is to be ready for use July 1, but will not be wholly completed until autumn. From the Jamestown Journal we take the following description of the proposed structure:

The building will be 31 by 50 feet in size on the ground. The style will be that of a Greek Doric temple, with four columned portico on the Simpson avenue front. The portico is reached by steps from either end. Between the columns there will be heavy Greek seats acting as a rail. The pediment is decorated with the symbolic design of the Patrons of Husbandry. The material will be cement on expanded metal, with trimmings of wood. The prevailing color will be cream trimmed with white, the sash and doors of antique bronze green.

On the interior will be a large assembly hall in front with eighteen foot ceiling. A classic fireplace will face the main entrance. In the rear of the assembly room will be kitchen, coat and toilet rooms, and a mezzanine floor will afford committee and keeper's rooms. The interior trim will be of ash, the floors of southern pine. Classic proportions will be observed throughout. In the frieze at front will be lettered "Patrons of Husbandry."

This building will be a noble memorial to a noble man, and the Patrons of Husbandry have rich cause for congratulation that Cyrus E. Jones determined upon this form of expressing in permanent form his love and veneration for his father. It will be one of the most imposing structures at Chautauqua and will prove of great use and benefit to the Order which is in such perfect accord with the Chautauquan scheme of education, and thousands of grangers will each season avail themselves of the accommodations and conveniences which the building is designed to provide.

THE FARMER'S EDUCATION.

It Need Not Be Unlike That For Others In Essentials.

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to the kind of education which farmers need, but all agree that successful agriculture depends upon education. I can see no reason why a farmer primarily should receive any different education than any other person. What difference does it make whether a boy means to be a farmer, a doctor, a lawyer or a hod carrier? The comfort of life as well as its usefulness, in whatever sphere, depends upon mental grasp and power, and it is the business of the college to give this very thing. The technical studies by which the doctor, the lawyer and the agriculturist are equipped for their work by no means exhaust the scope of a college education. It is intended to fit men and women to fill their appointed places in life with satisfaction to themselves and profit to their fellows.—G. A. Fuller.

The Grange a Beneficent Organization.

Do the farmers of this country realize what an influence for their good and advancement of their interests the grange is? Many of them are members of this great organization, and many have not improved their opportunity. Those who do belong reap benefits that the others do not. All are interested in anything that pertains to the upbuilding and growth of agricultural interests, for upon their success depends the prosperity and happiness of every one.

We believe in the grange. It is beneficial in every way. It promotes acquaintanceship; it gives a social side to the life of a farmer, which he so much needs; it stimulates ambition, it engenders friendship, it educates the mind in practical everyday matters and gives a zest to labor. Its united voice is a strong factor in the formation of laws and legislation for the advancement and betterment of mankind.—Country World.

Highland grange in California has established a summer school of economics and husbandry for the benefit of all interested in the problems of rural life which is meeting with great success and proving of real benefit to the farmers of that community.

We predict the largest attendance at the meeting of the national grange at Rochester, N. Y., next November in its history. There is talk of forming grange parties in each county of the state and going in special cars. The railroads will offer low rates.

ART EYELASHES.

Latest Device of a London Hair Specialist.

"Art eyelashes" are the latest invention of a hair specialist in Great Castle street, London, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Before noon the other day six ladies with downcast eyes emerged from the specialist's establishment. They had long silken eyelashes. A newspaper man who entered the shop gleaned some interesting information. On the counter were cardboard boxes containing countless cards. On each card was a delicate set of lashes attached to a scarcely visible strip of fish skin.

A small bottle containing a "skin fluid," patented in America, and two cards complete the outfit. The eyelashes are 2s. 6d. per pair for "society wear" and 1s. 6d. per pair for theatrical wear.

"On our customer's first visit," said the manager, "we fix the skin on the eyelid with the fluid, and the false lashes mix with the lashes of the lady. It is beautiful, beautiful!"

The lashes last ten days usually, but twenty with care. The manager declared that the 2s. 6d. pairs were proof against even a prolonged fit of hysterics, but he admitted, of course, that he had no direct evidence to that effect.

The theatrical lashes are black and very long and made of coarser material. The hairs are of vegetable origin and of every shade. They can be curled with the tongs when they become aggressively downcast.

Eyebrows at 10s. 6d. per pair, lasting from three to six months, are another specialty at this shop, and into those sold to elderly ladies gray hairs are cunningly inserted.

PLAN FOR DUSTLESS ROADS

Important Experiments Being Conducted by a British County.

An important experiment is being made by the West Sussex county council, in England, with a view to constructing a road which shall be dustless, have a smooth surface and resist percolation of water, says a special cable dispatch from London to the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The piece selected for the experiment is near Horsham. The stones used were Cherbourg quartzite, and in order that they should be thoroughly dried they were placed upon iron plates over a flue in the council's shed at Horsham. After the stones had been well heated they were spread out and allowed to become somewhat cool.

Then they were deposited from five inches to six inches thick on a wooden platform and covered with tar—five gallons, with a little pitch, being sufficient for a ton of stone. The stones were turned over and over, so that each had a coat of shining black, and afterward placed in a heap to mature.

At the present time the stones are being carted to Monksgate, on the Brighton road, and spread to an average depth of about five inches. They are consolidated by a ten ton steam roller, and clean sand is sprinkled over the surface just for a covering. About 100 tons of quartzite has been treated and will be sufficient to lay down upon a length of from 125 to 150 yards of road. Four hundred gallons of distilled tar, with which was mixed a little pitch, have been used.

The Potatoes' Paradise.

Aroostook county, Me., is called the potatoes' paradise. This year the crop will range from 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 bushels, of which the greater part will be shipped away. Last year the price averaged $1.70 a barrel.

Demand For Turbine Engines.

Faith in the new steam turbine engines is shown in the fact that two manufacturers have contracts to furnish in the aggregate approximately 540,000 horse power capacity of them.

Co-operate In Buying.

That many more dollars might be saved grangers by co-operation in buying their farm supplies than they do save seems quite evident. The fact is co-operation is too much a theory, too little a practice. But here is a concrete instance given in the words of a West Virginia Patron:

"I have just unloaded 14,500 pounds of barbed wire and some nails. My book shows this wire went to thirty-five farmers at a saving of 80 cents on the hundred pounds, or $115.

"Our orders this spring have reached nearly $700 for wire, nails, plows, sugar and building material, at a saving of from 25 to 50 per cent. The merchants are asking the question, How does it come the grange can get these articles delivered here for less than we can buy at?

"We are bunching our orders and getting the middleman's profits. We are proud of our Order and very enthusiastic over our success."

An Old Hall.

Enfield (Conn.) grange has recently dedicated the town hall to its use. This hall is 128 years old, the building having been finished in 1775 and largely paid for in produce. Town meetings have been held regularly in this building for 128 years. From 1775 to 1845 it was used for church services.

Mrs. B. B. Lord, lecturer of New York state grange, is one of the most energetic and successful state grange lecturers in the country, a good platform speaker and a resourceful leader in her line of work.—American Grange Bulletin.

There are now twenty-nine women of title in England who were American girls, including four duchesses and two countesses.

GOWNS TO TRAVEL IN.

The Well-dressed Woman—The Chic and Becoming Shirt Waist.

Now that the traveling days are here it behooves every woman to see that there is something more substantial in her summer wardrobe than frills and furbelows.

For the woman who eschews long coats, (and there are many who do,) the traveling suit is a necessity; and while short skirts are the most servicable, yet, since to some minds the aversion to short skirts is insurmountable, long skirts are eminently correct to travel in.

But no sensible woman will make such a mistake as to harbor the theory that anything, so long as it is comfortable and servicable, will do for a traveling frock, and ruthlessly sacrifice the becoming to the practical. Her traveling costume should be severe, appropriate and eminently chic and becoming. She will go to a good tailor and have it well made, if the thing is within possibilities, but if she must trust it to an inferior maker and the fates, she will have it fitted over a correct model of corset, giving the grace of figure so requisite for the present mode of dress. The C—B a la Spirite corset is especially recommended by dressmakers, not only for its modish effect but because the cheapest corset is just as well cut and gives as good a figure as the most expensive.

The braid-trimmed tailor-made in my illustration worn with a white linen Forey he waist is an excellent model for traveling.

Now as to shirt waists-popularity and general use do not always kill an attractive fashion, and no woman can be unattractively dressed who possesses a few well cut linen or madras shirt waists, but like the tailor-made gown, material and trimmings are secondary details, and it is the cut and finish that makes or mars the shirt waist. So let the waists, however few, be made by one up in shirt waist cult. Let them be plain cotton and linen ones, whose separate points are too subtle for the inexperienced to grasp, but which, combined, made up the perfect whole that the least sophisticated may recognize, and she who aims at a modish appearance will not miss her goal.

A Victim of Lock-jaw.

On the 4th while shooting blank cartridges from a revolver, Emanuel, the 15 years' old stepson of William Whiting, who lives above the upper Mill Hall axe factory, shot himself in the index finger of the left hand, on the inside of the finger and at the knuckle joint. The wound was not thought to be dangerous, and it was wrapped up and some salve put on. Monday, however, the wound became very painful and the boy's father took him to Mill Hall, where it was examined and dressed by a physician, who told them that it would not be necessary for them to come again. Thursday the pain became intense and the suffering of the boy was so great that Dr. Painter was called, who upon his arrival at the home found him suffering from tetanus, with jaws already locked. The doctor at once proceeded to give relief, which at first seemed impossible. He first cut open the wound and cleaned it thoroughly, afterwards following the course of the wad, which he found about half way between the knuckle joint and wrist on the back of the hand. The course of the wad was then thoroughly cleansed and all that could be, was done to alleviate the suffering of the boy, until death came to his relief Friday morning.

Plans for Improvements—Will Have Fine Equipment.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Bellefonte is one of the oldest in the State. It was organized in 1869. Two men who afterward occupied the Governor's chair were officers of its first Board of Directors, Hon. James A. Beaver being president and the late D. H. Hastings being secretary. Much credit is due the men who have kept the organization alive during all these years.

Last Tuesday the treasurer gave to Mr. Crider a check for the full amount of the purchase price and received in return a deed for the Irvin property, which is to be the permanent home for the Association. The Association has already taken possession, having fitted up the two large parlors for temporary quarters until they get possession of the entire building when the contemplated alterations will be made and a gymnasium built. This will likely be done early this fall. In the meantime a large part of the Association furniture will be stored in Petrikin Hall. The Building Committee has had plans made of a complete three-story building, such as should eventually be built to accommodate the Bellefonte work. Besides the present building and the gymnasium, these include parlor and class rooms for evening school, offices for rent and dormitories for young men. The improvements to be made this fall are so laid out as to work into the general plan for the whole building so no money will be wasted. They include, on the first floor a reception hall, reading room, secretary's office, game rooms, book club room, physical director's office and gymnasium. The latter will have a clear floor space of 40x60 feet and will be fitted with modern gymnastic apparatus. In the basement under the gymnasium and present building will be two regulation size bowling alleys, with separate entrance for ladies, locker room, toilet and wash room and baths and swimming pool. The pool will be 40x20 feet with an average depth of 6 feet. This will prove a most attractive feature, as one can indulge in a swim here whether the thermometer registers summer heat or ten degrees below zero.

On the second floor will be kitchen, meeting room which can be divided by rolling partition and used for class rooms or study rooms, boys' rooms and toilet.

Altogether the Association will have a splendid equipment and one which our young men should be proud of. Two hundred, or even more, members can be accommodated and there should be that number.

At least $5,000 will have to be raised yet to complete these improvements as planned and carry on the work next year. The Board will complete the canvass for this amount before beginning the improvements, as they do not wish to involve the Association in debt unless the money is pledged. This is a splendid time to consider endowments for the work. The reading room, library, physical department or boy's work offer opportunities for splendid memorials. The suggestion is worthy of the consideration of our citizens.

Bright Prospects at the Academy.

The coming year at the Bellefonte Academy promises to be a very successful one. It could not be otherwise in view of the preparations that have been made already and are now going on in the interest of that institution.

The addition of Bayard Sharpe to the faculty not only strengthens the mathematical department, but insures the most successful teams in football, basketball and baseball.

The corps of instructors is composed as follows: J. R. Hughes, English and Oratory, Rev. J. P. Hughes, E. H. Myers and Bayard Sharpe in the Mathematical and Scientific departments. William Wharton, History and Ancient Languages. Isabella Hill, English, Kate Davis, Modern Languages. Helen E. Overton, Primary department and Eleanor Ardell and Jennie Harper primary assistants.

This is the largest faculty the Academy has ever had. The school rooms have been repapered and repainted and present a very attractive and comfortable appearance.

The number of students from the near by towns will be larger than usual next year.

A GROWING INDUSTRY.

The Bullock Chair and Swing Company to be Incorporated.

Many of our people are unaware that an industry has been quietly growing in our midst which in time may surpass many of the older business concerns of this community. We refer to the Bullock Swing and Chair Company, whose office is at Bellefonte and whose factory is at Milesburg.

The firm was originally L. C. Bullock alone but about two months ago, G. R. Spigelmyer associated himself with Mr. Bullock and new life was infused into the enterprise. They have now taken in a third partner in the person of W. L. Hicks, the well known attorney of Tyrone, Pa. It is the intention of the firm to have the company incorporated with a capital of $100,000. The plant will be greatly enlarged and give employment to many more men.

It behooves Bellefonte to get a hustle on if she desires to keep this industry in her midst as we understand Tyrone is making a strong bid for it.

The English "Society for the Prevention of Consumption" preside over by the Prince of Wales, was recently addressed by Sir William Broadbent, who stat it was definitely known that every case of consumption began with a germ communicated from some other case. There is no such thing as inherited consumption. There may be local weakness which tends to consumption, but the germ has absolutely to be planted in that weak spot before consumption can ensue This ought to comfort thousands of people who have "weak chests" or "weak lungs." They are not foreordained victims of this dread disease. All that is needed to bid absolute defiance to this deadly scourage, is to be able to strengthen the weak lungs, and build up a strong body. The answer to this need is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It so purifies the blood and increases the blood supply, that disease is thrown off, and the weak organs are nourished into perfect health, which defies germs of every kind. People given up by doctors, emaciated, bleeding at the lungs, with obstinate, lingering coughs, are being cured every day by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

WHEN THE YEAR ROLLED ROUND

By Cicely Allen

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

"It wasn't three weeks before he died that I said to Nathan Dexter: 'You'd ought to have a partner, Nathan. You're getting along in years, and with no sons'—

"'I may have no sons,' says he, 'but I've a daughter that would put half the sons of this town to shame. So long as she lives there'll be no sign over that door but the Nathan Dexter Milling company. No half baked partner is going to get into this firm just because he wears pants.'

"Myra's certainly been an amazing comfort to her father, and there ain't many girls with the money behind 'em that she has who would spend their days in a noisy mill to please a father that's dead sore because she wasn't a boy. But that's no saying she can manage the business now's he's gone.

"Well, I've heard Nathan say that Myra knew as much as he did about the business, from buying yarn to making out pay checks.

"And there's Arthur Blynn, who's been waiting three years or more for Myra. I reckon he'll have something to say about the settlement of the estate."

The object of this corner grocery gossip was at the same moment seated in the library of the Dexter home. In an easy chair by the fireplace her mother was weeping softly. On the sofa, with their arms intwined, were her two younger sisters, summoned home from college by their father's sudden death. On one side of the table was Arthur Blynn, whose eyes constantly sought the beautiful face of the girl opposite him. Some women become red eyed and maudlin in sorrow. Myra Dexter was not that sort. All during the trying time she had looked like one whose grief had been chastened and purified by the remembrance of happy companionship with the father who had gone before. No one, not even his wife, had known Nathan Dexter as his older daughter had known him—and loved him.

"THERE IS NO REASON WHY WE SHOULD GO OVER THESE TODAY."

She laid her slender white hand on the mass of papers which Arthur had spread before her.

"There is really no reason, Arthur, why we should go over these today. I know their contents, and mother and the girls should not be worried by business details at this time. Everything will go on exactly as when father dear was with us. The girls must return to college next week, for above all things he wished them to graduate. The business is in excellent condition, and it will not be necessary for us to change our style of living."

Mrs. Dexter coughed nervously, and Myra returned a questioning glance in her direction.

"But the mills, Myra"—

"They will be run just as father has always run them."

Mrs. Dexter flashed an appeal for help to Arthur, and Myra intercepted the glance. Her lips set more firmly. Mrs. Dexter plunged on.

"But, Myra, if the Sconset Milling company is willing to buy us out why not take their offer? This money carefully invested, with our real estate and your dear father's insurance, would provide an ample income."

"We will not discuss the matter further just now. But this much you must expect: As executor of father's estate I shall see that the spirit as well as the letter of his will is carried out. I know it was his wish that the name of the Nathan Dexter Milling company should stand as a monument to his ability and honesty. That is the work he left to me. John Carson will be my right hand man, as he has been father's, and we shall succeed."

When the others had gone Arthur rose and with elaborate care bound up each package of papers. Myra, with her back to the high carved mantel, stood watching him.

"Myra, I am willing to serve my seven years for you, but this decision means more than seven years. It means a life work. For four years you have kept me waiting that you might please your father, and now"—

Myra slipped her hand gently through his arm.

"Just a little while longer, Arthur, until I see that the business is running smoothly under my management."

"But when it runs smoothly you will be ambitious to branch out"—

"And if I am? Why, Arthur, you men marry and go right on with your professions or your business. Marriage does not put an end to these things for you. Why should it for us women?"

"Because when the cursed professional microbe gets into a woman's system it makes her impatient of domestic life. A man can keep his business and his home life distinct—a woman never can. Myra, this is the crisis of our love. Will it be my love or your pride?"

"Neither, Arthur. It is merely fulfilling the last wish of my father."

Arthur gathered up his hat and gloves. She stood proudly erect and spoke calmly.

"I trust you will continue to be our legal adviser, as you were father's?"

"Certainly," he answered courteously and was gone.

The weeks rolled into months, the months into a year. The business of the Nathan Dexter Milling company had never been so prosperous. The model cottages for employees had been built. When other mills in the vicinity had been handicapped by strikes Myra's orders had been filled with dispatch. The Boston papers had published her picture and an enterprising newspaper woman from New York had interviewed her on "The Woman In Business."

But all this had not been accomplished without cost. Myra had no social pleasures. She spent ten hours a day at the mills, and John Carson, her superintendent, was a frequent visitor at her home after dinner. The gray haired "boss" and the brown haired mistress of the Nathan Dexter mills held many anxious conferences in the lamp lit library. The Dexters took a cottage by the sea for the hot weather, but Myra spent only an occasional Sunday with them.

And Arthur? Not once had he referred to their old time relations. Always attentive to his duties as their adviser, always appreciative of an evening at home in her society, he refrained from pushing his suit. At first Myra missed his small loverlike attentions. Then she became so absorbed that she regarded him only as a helpful factor in the success of her business ventures, for his advice was always sound.

So at last the holidays came, and the world made merry. Myra distributed Christmas gifts to her employees, but let her sisters buy all her presents for family and friends. The girls brought college friends home, and the festivities annoyed Myra.

She was thinking of this, with a frown between her clearly arched brows, when her mother came into the library. Mrs. Dexter paused in the doorway.

"I hope I am not bothering you, Myra, but I am so lonesome. The girls are out, and—and the house seems so big. I am glad you are doing so well with the business, daughter, but I—I miss you so. Since your father's death I am so much alone."

Myra pushed aside a paper covered with figures and took her mother's hand in hers. A sudden thought flashed through her mind and cut her heart. In her devotion to the dead had she overlooked her duty to the living? For some moments she sat with her arms encircling her mother's slender frame. Then they talked, and all the mother love poured itself out in Mrs. Dexter's involved sentences. Not of herself did she speak, but of Myra and Arthur—patient Arthur.

The next day Myra wrote to Arthur, who was in Boston on business:

"Dearest Arthur—New Year's, they say, is the day for good resolutions. I have just made one—at least I hope you will think it is a good one. I am turning over the active business management of the mills to John Carson. Will you come home as soon as possible and draw up the partnership papers? I need you. Faithfully,

"MYRA.

"P. S.—The firm name stands as of old, Nathan Dexter Milling company. Isn't John Carson a dear old fellow?"

And Arthur wired back:

"Happy New Year. Leave tonight. God bless John Carson—and my Myra!"

How a Duke Bought a Wife.

In a church near Edgeware, England, is the mortuary chapel of the Chandos family, with a huge marble tombstone and a figure in Roman costume of the Duke of Chandos, with one of his wives on either side. A romantic story is told about the marriage of the duke's third wife. The duke, who lived early in the eighteenth century, is said to have been driving through Marlborough, and while halting at the castle inn to have heard a woman's screams proceeding from the yard. He went to see what was the matter and found a beautiful girl at the mercy of a hostler, who was beating her cruelly. The duke interfered and the hostler declared that the girl was his wife, and therefore he had a right to beat her, but that he was willing to sell her for $100. The duke paid down the money and took the girl away, had her educated and eventually married her. The quaint story is recorded in a book which is preserved in the British museum and which is bound in crimson velvet that remained over from the coffin of the duchess.

LEO XIII.

The death of Pope Leo XIII is not a shock to Christianity, for the whole civilized world has been watching at his bedside for weary weeks and days. People of every nation and clime have been patiently awaiting the sorrowful announcement of his passing, and wondering day after day how that frail body and soul could hold together. Indeed, the last struggle of this remarkable prelate, aged and infirm, is one of the most pathetic in history, and his last illness will be recorded as one of the remarkable chapters of his remarkable reign as Pontiff.

Leo XIII was one of the best Popes who ever sat on the throne of St. Peter. His administration was marked by enlightenment and liberality, and he accomplished vast good for the benefit of civilization. As a man he was great and good, as a church official his name will go down to posterity as one of the best who ever lived, and the influence of his work will survive for all time.

The world mourns for Leo. The lines of sect and creed will be obliterated as humanity bows in grief at his bier.

AN UNPARALLELED OFFER!

In order to introduce the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN into the homes of Centre county citizens where it is not already a welcome visitor, the publisher has determined to make the following offer:

We will send the REPUBLICAN on trial to any address in Centre county from now until December 1, 1903, for 25 cents. As anyone can readily see, this does not more than cover the cost of the white paper, and our only hope of reward is that you will become regular readers of the REPUBLICAN in the future.

Each week a sheet of music is given away free worth at least ten cents.

We publish more local news than any other paper in Centre county and have a correspondent in almost every town.

There is a column devoted to the Grange and a Pennsylvania German letter each week, and also a short story.

Sent on trial five (5) months for 25 cents, or one year $1.00; 52 dividends on the dollar invested.

Send us your name.

AT Lebanon, Pa., a man was legally hanged yesterday. Where were the lynchers?—Chicago Daily News, July 3.

The REPUBLICAN would remind The News that the people of Pennsylvania believe in permitting the law to act in such matters. This Commonwealth is not Delaware—or Illinois.

JAMES LEWIS IS KNOWN HERE.

James Lewis, who was wounded in the Foust stable before he would surrender, is known by a number of people near Centre Hall. Last January he slept, for a night or more, in a stable on the farm of Hon. L. Rhone. He was short of provision, and went to the home of Captain Bill Snyder, who lives near by, for something to eat. Mr. Snyder gave Lewis, who said his name was James Albright, permission to sleep in his house, as it was a bitter cold night. This hospitality the man seemed to greatly appreciate, and he accordingly remained there for a period of three or four weeks.

During the tourists stay with Snyder, he assisted Richard Brooks to bale hay. Work went awkward with him, but he was willing and soon learned to handle a fork.

Mr. Brooks, while in Bellefonte recently, visited Lewis, and at once recognized him as the man referred to above. He was addressed "James Albright," but Lewis pretended that he did not know Mr. Brooke. When the hay baling incident was related, Lewis acknowledge he was the man.

The quartet of robbers now in the Bellefonte jail will be tried by the Goverment at Williamsport at some future date. The prisoners will be removed to the Lycoming county prison ere long and there await trial.—Centre Reporter.

THE PEDDLING ORDINANCE.

The constitutionality of local borough ordinances prohibiting hawking and peddling on the streets or from door to door by sample or otherwise sustained by Judge Auton at Sunbury in an opinion handed down last week in the Rearick case.

N. L. Rearick, the agent of the Citizens Wholesale Supply company, of Columbus, Ohio, was arrested in Sunbury some time ago by Special Officer Paul Fendrick at the instance of the Business Men's association for selling goods by sample from door to door without licenee. He was given a hearing before Justice Carpenter, who in accordance, imposed a fine of twenty-five dollars and the costs.

The defendant's counsel appealed the case to the United States district court for the middle district of Pennsylvaniat asking to be discharged under a writ of habeas corpus claiming that the ordinance was a violation of the inter-state commerce clause of the constitution of the United States. The application for a discharge was denied by the district court and the case was referred back to the courts of the country.

It was argued before Judge Auten, H. S. Knight, of Sunbury, representing the business men. This morning Judge Auten handed down his opinion affirming the action of Justice Carpenter in imposing the fine of twenty-five dollars, which is practically declaring the ordinance to be all right.

Death of Mrs. James G. Blaine.

Augusta, Me., July 17.—Mrs. James G. Blaine, whose death occurred Wednesday in this city, was 76 years of age. She came from Washington a short time ago to the old family residence on State street, this city. She was in an enfeebled condition and had been under almost constant medical attention since. During the last week she failed rapidly, owing to a general break-down of the system.

Mrs. Blaine's maiden name was Harriet Stanwood and she was the daughter of a leading citizen of Maine. She met her husband while they were teachers in a school in Kentucky. They were married in Pittsburg and later came to Augusta, where Mr. Blaine became the editor of the Kennebec Journal. She leaves one son, James G. Blaine, and two daughters, Mrs. Harriet Beale and Mrs. Walter Damrosch, of New York, who were at her bedside during her last sickness.

The funeral services took place Friday and the body was buried at Washington.

A Young Williamsport Girl's Strange Story.

Maggie Hunter, a 15 year old Williamsport girl, was taken deathly ill on the street Monday morning about 10 o'clock. Dr. Albert C. Lamade, who was called to attend her, after working until late in the afternoon on the case, said that it looked very much as though the girl had been given a very powerful drug. It is thought that she would have died had he not arrived when he did.

Maggie says that immediately after leaving a street car she was met by a stranger who hypnotized her with a motion of his hand. They went into a hotel nearby, and took a drink soon after which she was taken very ill. She was taken with convulsions on the way to the home of her aunt, and was carried into the house of Mrs. Mary Stah on Canal street.

Dr. Lemade, after working for several hours with her, had her removed to her home, where she is now very ill.

HEAVY FIGHTING!

Struggle Between the Government Forces and the Rebels in Venezuela.

LOSSES WILL BE QUITE HEAVY

Revolutionists Are Without Provisions or Water and Their Condition is Said to Be Desperate.

MUST EITHER DIE OR SURRENDER

CARACAS, Venezuela, July 22.—A messenger who has arrived here by steamer and train from Ciudad Bolivar, reports that the city was captured by the government troops at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.

SOLDAD, Ven., July 20.—Monday, 7 P. M.—The fight from 1 o'clock this afternoon has been horrible and at this hour the only places which still resist the onset of the government troops are the jail and the capitol.

Early in the afternoon the government troops, which had received all the reinforecements available, along with ammunition, numbered in all 5,000 men, were ordered to make a general attack upon all positions still held by the rebels. At 5 o'clock this afternoon the Zamora, called the Sebastopool of Ciudad Bolivar, was stormed and captured. Ninety-four dead rebels were found inside, among them being Gen. Aznandaz, one of the revolutionary leaders, whose head had been blown off by a shell. It is impossible to render an idea of the carnage which occurred at this point.

At the same time Gen. Rivas, Gen. Gomez's chief lieutenant, with 2,300 men, succeeded in destroying a barricade erected around the Miranda piaza, the key to the capitol, where the survivors of the revolution were concentrated. All the roads and streets running into the capitol are guarded by government troops and the escape of the revolutionists after the capture of the capitol, which is inevitable, seems impossible. They must either surrender or die. At 7 o'clock tonight the custom house was taken after a ten hours' fight. The Associated Press representative counted sixty killed as a result of this fight.

The Dalton block, where the American consulate and most of the foreign business houses are located, was fired at 5 o'clock. The revolutionists are without provisions and water, the supply pipe having been cut yesterday. Their situation is considered desperate and hopeless. The shops are being pillaged.

Funeral of George L. Potter.

The funeral of the late George L. Potter took place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Potter resident on East Linn street. Although the weather was inclement there was a large attendance of friends and relatives, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The services which were very simple throughout were conducted by Rev. William Laurie D. D. L L D., of the Presbyterian church. A quartette composed of Mrs. J. C. Meyer, Miss Henrietta Butts, Henry Brown, and Malcolin Laurie sang several selections.

The following were the casket bearers: Col. Austin Curtin, Gen. John I. Curtin, John Thompson, J. C. Curtin, William Thompson and James I. Thompson.

Many beautiful floral offerings were received. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Operated on for Appendicitis.

The many friends of Miss Gussie Smith, daughter of J. P. Smith of North Spring street, will learn with regret of her serious illness. Sunday morning while attending the Methodist church she was taken seriously ill and was removed to her home. At first it was thought she was suffering from acute indigestion. Later however unmistakable signs of appendicitis appeared and on Wednesday evening between 5 and 6 o'clock she was operated on by Doctors Hayes, Seibert and Sebring. The operation was very successful.

Miss Smith is a member of next years Senior class at the Bellefonte High school and is a bright and attractive young lady. It is to be hoped that her recovery may be rapid.

Charley Nelson Dead.

Charley Nelson, a 6 year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Nelson, of Philipsburg, was buried Tuesday afternoon, who died from the effects of a wound in his left hand, caused by the explosion of a blank cartridge on the Fourth of July, from which he suffered much up until death relieved him. Everything was done for the child that medical aid and home care could do. Three doctors being in attendance several times a day, but lock jaw set in which proved fatal It is a sad blow to the parents, who have the deepest sympathy of the community at large. This is another warning against the handling of these dangerous blank cartridges.—Philipsburg Journal.

—Delong Stewart has been selected as secretary of the Centre County Fair Association to succeed John Blanchard.

A BIG BUSINESS DEAL.

A very important business deal was brought to a successful close Tuesday by which W. E. Gheen, Shem Spigelmyer, and G. M. Gamble become the owners of the valuable water power, flour mill, lumber yard and other buildings belonging to P. B. Crider & Son at this place.

For several weeks rumors in regard to the sale of this valuable property have been afloat but the Republican refrained from saying anything until the deal was closed. Tuesday we interviewed F. W. Crider and secured the correct story.

The property has been sold to the above mentioned Jersey Shore capitalists, all of whom are men of great wealth. The purchase price was $35,000 and by the sale, Messrs. Gheen, Spigelmyer and Gamble become owners of all the water right, buildings etc., transfered by the Hale estate to F. W. Crider.

P. B. Crider and Son will continue to operate the lumber yard and planing mill up until April 1, 1904, after which time they will operate only the skewer and novelty department of mill and the wholesale department in lumber business.

C. T. Gerberich will continue to operate the flour mill until July 1, 1904.

Messrs. Criders reason for selling is to increase the wholesale and manufacturing part of their business and to do away with the bother of the retail end of it.

Mr. Gamble will be the manager of the new firm, both in the flour mill and retail lumber business after April 1, 1904 and will then make his home in this place. Mr. Gamble was in the flour milling business near Jersey Shore but recently sold out making a nice sum of money

These men are energetic hustling business men with plenty of capital back of them and Bellefonte will welcome them with open arms, hoping that their business career in our town may be a successful one.

Leaders In Athletics.

The following comments are from the lengthy detailed account of the records of different players of the Ohio Northern University at Ada, Ohio, as they appeared in the University Herald recently:

In O. M. Dibler of Rote the team has a pitcher of exceptional ability as well as a thorough student. Mr. Dibler has proven himself a gentleman in its strictest sense His future is assured. He graduates from the commercial department.

I. J. Smull, Jr., of Mackeyville has proven himself an efficient captain and endeared himself to every student in the institution by his earnest efforts for the team's welfare. His work behind the bat has been excellent and his batting record is remarkable, he having an average of 587, a record which is probably unparalleled by any other college player in this state, He has been appointed coach of the foot ball team next fall and is connected with the teaching force of the institution.

Victor I. Walker of Rebersburg has proven himself to be a star on the gridiron and has also been among the leaders on the base ball team. His orginal position of centerfield was taken from him in order to have him fil a vacancy at second base. True to expectations he proved more than equal to the occasion. Mr. Walker graduates from the scientific department.

It seems a strange coincidence that Messrs. Dibler, Smull and Walker are all from the same section of the same state. All played on the Susquehanna college team for the past two years and now are the leaders in the batting department of our team. Smull .587, Dibler .560 and Walker .500. Our schedule has been an exceptionally hard one and we are proud of only three defeats.

BROOM STOCK BOOMS

From the facts presented you will understand why stock of the International Broom Company, Manufacturers of the Twentieth Century Broom, is a gilt-edged investment, and why it is regarded as such by all who will not put their money into any enterprise unless they see great and speedy profits ahead. Owing to the quick growth and great progress of the International Broom Company the stock has been advanced to

60 CENTS A SHARE.

We would advise intending investors to avail themselves of this low price and purchase before another raise. With the various applications for sub-companies now in hand, there is no doubt that about the latter part of August the price will be advanced to

75 CENTS A SHARE.

The high place The New Broom gained in public favor is due to the Company's ability to produce solid proof of every statement.

Contract closed for sub-company in Chicago with largest broom manufacturer in the United States.

Contract will be closed shortly for sub-company in Kansas City.

Contract will be closed shortly for sub-company in Fall River, Mass.

Contract will be closed shortly for sub-company in City of Mexico.

Sub-Company now manufacturing the New Broom in Ottawa, Ont.

All on royalties to the parent company—The Ottawa Company alone will pay the International Broom Company about $25,000 a year in royalties.

20 Other Applications for Sub-Companies Now Pending.

WE ASSERT AND CAN PROVE

That the demand for The New Broom is as wide as the civilized world.

That it is the only sanitary broom made.

That the Brooklyn factory made in April, 1903, twice as many brooms as in March and four times as many as in February, and earned a profit of more than 25 per cent. over its operating expenses on its production.

That dealers, wholesale and retail, think so well of The New Broom that they are becoming stockholders in the Company.

If we could not prove all this, and more, we should not expect any careful and conservative investor to buy this stock.

As we are thoroughly familiar with the plans and projects of the Company and the possibilities of The New Broom we unhesitatingly declare that this stock should very soon pay a dividend in the par value and rapidly advance until it sells for $2.00 or $3.00 per share.

It is, therefore, advisable that intending investors who wish to investigate this proposition do so at an early date before the next advance in price is announced. Those who subscribe now will be benefited by the increase.

Intending investors can obtain full particulars and ample proof of the claims of this Company on application at our office.

LATEST FROM THE BURGLARS.

The four men confined in the jail on the charge of burglary are evidently one of the most daring gang of safe breakers and post office robbers that ever operated in Pennsylvania. This is becoming more apparent each day.

Reno Zimmerman, of Hartleton, whom they blindfolded and beat on the highway before coming into this county, was here and positively identified them.

Two more of them have been identified as former convicts, by the Pinkerton detective agency, and by the postoffice authorities through photographs taken of them. The man who gave his name as James Rine was No. 2804 in the Western penitentiary, sentenced for burglary Feb. 8, 1900, and the man who gave his name as William Palmer was No. 2222, in the same prison, sentenced Feb. 8, 1898, for burglary. No trace can be found of the man who gave his name as Samuel Shireman, and it is believed that he is an amateur at the business.

Lewis, the wounded man, is about well, but he makes out that he may die and does not want to be taken to Williamsport where he will again be tried by the United States court. It is believed that he is "playing possum," and that sometime he is going to make a break for liberty. To prevent this special guards have been placed over him who watch him day and night. He is very ill-tempered, and has become a great annoyance. He is angry at everybody, and has threatened violence to everyone who dares to ruffle his temper, Jerry Condo, the turnkey, has been very kind to him, and yet he has threatened to throw him over the banister and break his neck as soon as he gets able.

Ryan and Shireman are in one steel cage together, and are causing Sheriff Taylor and his deputies an endless amount of trouble and uneasiness. With some kind of a weapon they pried out the iron gratings in the cell window, but they found the space too small to let them through or they would have escaped. On attempting to open the cell the turnkey found that they had been tampering with the lock on the inside door and the result was that the only way they could open the cell was for the sheriff to break the lock. When the officers reached the inside they found hid away two table knives cut into saws ready to saw off the bars when opportunity presented itself. The knives were missed from the mess in the morning and the quick use they made of them shows that they understand their business, and proves their intent.—Daily News.

College Notes.

Those of our readers who witnessed the inspection and drill of the State College Cadet Battalion at the time of the inspection made last June by Capt. E. S. Benton, U. S. A., will recall the excellent impression made by the Cadets in every part of the exercises.

The College has just received a copy of Capt. Benton's Report to the War Department as to the results of his inspection, in which he speaks in very high terms of the discipline and bearing and efficiency of the cadets, and the evidences of careful and intelligent work on the part of the Commandant and the cadet officers of the Battalion. While making various minor suggestions as to points in which improvements can be made, Capt. Benton says, "As a result of the inspection it can be stated that the Military Department is in excellent condition throughout."

Back woods Girl an Empress.

Appleton, Wis., July 22.—Born in the backwoods as the daughter of a missionary and at forty the empress of an Oriental kingdom and mother of the heir apparent to the Korean throne is the story of Emily Brown, born in Appleton, now the Empress of Korea.

Last January Yi Honge, Emperor of Korea, celebrated the fortieth anniversary of his coming to the throne and on the same day a beautiful American woman named Emily Brown, daughter of the Rev. Herbert Brown, a missionary, and long the light of the emperor's harem, was crowned Empress of Korea and her son declared heir apparent to the throne. Just About Half Sick

How many times you hear people say, "I don't know what ails me—I am tired all the time—don't feel like moving—don't care to go anywhere—don't want anyone to bother me—nothing interests me—I feel half dead." It's not a pleasant tale. It shows a system at a low ebb—a system ready and fertile soil for any low type of fever or disease. It shows the need of a strong, all-round tonic—a tonic that will reach every part, every organ—brain, nerves, stomach and muscles. A medicine that will give a new feeling of life, a new energy and spring to the played-out system. A time-tried, time-tested medicine—Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Myrtle Van Sice, of Stockdale St., DuBois, Pa., says: "I was feeling very badly, nervous, run down and rest broken at night, was just about sick. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills were suggested to me and I used them with fine success. Their power to give steady nerves—bring back general strength and restful sleep was soon shown in my strength and return to health. I can consequently recommend them to others as a reliable and fine nerve tonic."

POSTAL CARD DELUGE.

The thousands of postal cards received every month by the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation of Rondout, N. Y., requesting a trial bottle of their FAVORITE REMEDY reach such huge proportions that it has been very justly called a postal deluge.

If in return for the price of a postal card (one cent) you receive a medicine free, that will relieve your suffering. It is only fair to believe that a continued use of the same medicine, for a reasonable length of time will surely cure you.

Women who suffer from what is known as "female weaknesses" find, upon investigation, that their troubles are really diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder. To ascertain this, allow some urine to remain in a glass for twenty-four hours; if there is a sediment and smoky appearance; if you have pains in the back; if you are obliged to frequently urinate during the night, and if burning pains accompany its passage; you should seek at once Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, the most brilliant jewel in the world of medicine.

Druggists sell it in New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles.

BENCH WARRANT.

WHAT INVESTIGATION DID

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT TROUBLE

NEW YORK, July 18.—A bench warrant was issued by Judge Thomas, in the United States circuit court, Brooklyn Friday, for the arrest of George W. Beavers, formerly chief of the division of salaries and allowances in the postoffice department, on an indictment found by the federal grand jury, which charges him with accepting a bribe of $840. It is understood that payments to Beavers were traced back to the purchase by the government of the Brandt-Dent Cash Registering Machine company. The postoffice inspectors found that Beavers had a large account in Nassau Trust company, Brooklyn, and are said to have discovered that checks deposited there had been given to ex-Congresman Driggs. The warrant has not yet been served and it is said Mr. Beaver could not be found. It is stated that he would have until Monday to present himself and that an arrangement had been made with his attorneys to enter a plea for him at that time.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The issuance of a bench warrant for the arrest of George W. Beavers, the former chief of the division of salaries and allowances of the postoffice department is the culmination of an investigation that has been in progress at intervals since his sudden resignation from office last spring. A number of matters affecting his administration have been probed into, one of the first results of which was the cancellation of 3,046 promotions that had been passed on by him, to take effect at postoffices throughout the country during the fiscal year. The case on which the present action of the grand jury is based, it is said, is a more recent development. The inspectors have worked continuously on the investigation and it is said that it was only within the past two or three days, that the evidence was finally secured that furnished a basis for action by the federal grand jury.

A NEW CURE FOR SNAKE BITE.

Christ Sharrer, of Hannah, Tells An Interesting Snake Story.

Christ Sharrer, of Hannah, was in town Friday on business and while here regaled his friends with an interesting snake story. As he is a reliable citizen and vouches for the truth of the story it must be so.

A few days ago a man came to Mr. Sharrer's home in Taylor township suffering from the bite of a venemous reptile. The man was William Shay and his home is at Chester Hill, near Philipsburg. He had been out in the mountain picking huckleberries when he came upon an immense rattlesnake. Mr. Shay carried with him a small hatchet which he used to cut away the underbrush, with this he struck the snake a violent blow, cutting him square in half. Now comes the strange part of the story; the snake though dismembered sprang at Mr. Shay and burying his fangs in one of the fingers of his right hand, chewed it, to use Mr. Shay's expression "like a wildcat." It was with difficulty that Mr. Shay separated the snake from his hand. He then dispatched the snake, but by this time his arm had begun to pain him severely. He hastened to the nearest house which proved to be Mr. Sharrer's and told of his trouble.

Mr. Sharrer at once killed a chicken and placed Mr. Shay's hand inside it keeping it there until the chicken, was cold. He also tied a string around the man's wrist tight and then poulticed the hand with the white of eggs. In time he extracted a cup full of poisonous matter from the wound and Mr. Shay recovered and went on his way rejoicing.

The rattlesnake was 5 feet long and had fourteen rattles.

The American Policeman.

A Kentuckian was passing a pond in Ohio upon which some young men and women, strangers to him were skating. Noticing that the ice was very thin, young Bluegrass called young Buckeye to him, and peremptorily demanded that he remove the party of skaters from the pond. The Ohio boy resented the manner of the Kentuckian, and demanded his reasons for interfering in a matter which was no concern of his.

"No concern of mine?" repeated the chivalrous Southerner, in astonishment. "I should say it is. Why, first thing you know one of those young ladies will break through the ice, and then I'll be drowned."

This is the attitude of the American policeman. When danger comes, it is inevitable that he takes the initiative, as no one else will do so unless it be some ex-policeman who chances to be on hand at the time, and in whom the instinct of heroism was as lively as when he was but a year on the force. He confronts death in many forms. The midnight ruffian waits for him with a bludgeon in some dark alley, or the vindictive Italian lurks with drawn knife to stab him in the back. Thugs, runaway horses, fires and the river contribute their quota to the element of hazard that permeates his career because he is the general-utility man of life in the cities.

Much has been written by the recorder of worthy deeds of the good things done by policemen, while on the vaudeville etage his shortcomings have been grotesquely presented. His integrity has been impeached and almost everything said of him that could make a man detest his profession, but his courage has never been questioned.

Bankruptcy via the Press-Clipping Bureau.

A new terror has come to torment the egotist who subscribes to a Press-Clipping Bureau. The magazines send out each month what is known as an editorial sheet, in which bits of information or quotation in assorted series are made ready for the editor who is not above the use of sheare. Every newspaper gets one of these sheets and practically every one uses part of it. Hence the deluge.

"Thus", says Rupert Hughes, "I sold a sonnet to a magazine some years ago, and last month it appeared. I had been paid about a dollar a line. Several editors, being desperate to fill some gap of exactly fourteen lines, clipped my sonnet. The press-clipping bureau clipped the clipping. The total charge for these was only a few dollars more than I got for the verses. In addition to this, the magazine editors also sent out a digest of the table of contents, in which my mere naked name was mentioned among the 'also wrotes.' This digest was sent to 20,000 newspapers. Every one reprinted it. The press-clippers caught every reprint and sent me a copy at the regular rate of five cents per clipping. Deducting the fourteen dollars I received for the sonnet, I have lost down to date exactly $986—a heavy fine to pay even for such a poem The worst of all is the irony of the fact that the sonnet was called 'Anonymous'. How I wish it had been!"

Clear Weather for Forty Days.

Forty days of sunshine!

That is the pleasant assurance which can be given to vacationists if the prognostications of the weather man and the historic legend of old St. Swithin are to be relied upon.

Wednesday was St. Swithin's day and tradition has it that the condition of the weather for the next forty days depends on whether or not it rains on that day.

Umbrellas, raincoats and rubber shoes may be safely stowed away in double layers of camphor, say the superstitious, and the man with the imitation Panama may venture forth without fear of having his headgear wilted out of shape.

The fair maiden with the paper hat that looks like straw may also feel assured that no rain-clouds will dare thrust themselves above the horison in defiance of St. Swithin's decree.

But although the weather man has promised a large share of sunny days, he is unable to say that the cool weather will last.

In the forecast which was sent out from Washington, slowly rising temperature was predicted without any venture as to where it will stop. It is possible that there may be a return to the torrid weather of last week with its record of deaths and prostrations.

An Exciting Runaway.

On Tuesday evening Ethel and Hubert Gray and Gray Way, of near Waddle, drove up to Gray's church to attend a singing class which was to have been organized there that evening. The instructor, however, failing to appear they spent the evening at the Bricker home on the old Jacob Gray farm near by.

About ten o'clock they started home and were driving along very quietly when without the least warning or provocation the horse suddenly kicked in the dashboard and started to run. The boys are both accustomed to horses and they held onto the lines with all their strength until some distance below Murray's Inn. Then they were going at such a pace that they decided to attempt to get out of the buggy.

Miss Gray escaped without any serious injuries but the boys were not so fortunate. Young Way had a deep gash cut in his left shoulder and his leg, over which a wheel of the buggy passed, is so cut and bruised that he is practically out of business for the summer.

Hubert Gray landed on his head and in consequence his ear was badly cut and the whole side of his face bruised. The horse continued its mad race past the residence of D. L. Meek who, on hearing the racket, started out to investigate. The young people were found up along the road and helped into his home where they were cared for until they were able to be moved to their homes near by.

So Appropriate.

The young minister had got his first charge, and when he conducted the services for the first time in his church before the large and critical congregation he acquitted himself very well, and his sermon was evidently well liked. Still, underneath his smooth and glossy new coat his heart was beating with a painful nervousness, and when the sermon was over and he began to read the usual notices he was so flurried, despite his outward calm, that he overlooked the notice of the mother's meeting.

He was about to announce the last hymn when the old deacon, who liked the young man very much, came down the aisle and whispered to him not to forget the notice. "You must please the women, you know," said the wise old man.

The young minister blushed and read the notice, and then turned to the hymn, the first line of which he read aloud, as was the custom of the church. And then he blushed harder than ever, and the congregation could not forbear to smile. The line ran:

"Lord, what a thoughtless wretch am I."

TRDAE YOURKIDNEYS FOR RHEUMATISM.

When you are suffering from rheumatism, the kidneys must be attended to at once so that they will eliminate the uric acid from the blood. Foley's Kidney Cure is the most effective remedy for this purpose. R. T. Hopkins, of Polar, Wis., says. "After unsuccessfully doctoring three years for rheumatism with the best doctors, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine." C. M. Parrish.

Wealth.

It is recorded of Cornelius Vanderbilt that before he died he said to a friend; "I don't see what good it does me—all this money that you say is mine. I can't eat it; I can't spend it; in fact, I never saw it and never had it in my hands for a moment. I dress no better than my private secretary and cannot eat as much as my coachman. I live in a big servant's boardinghouse, am bothered to death by beggars, have dyspepsia, cannot drink champagne, and most of my money is in the hands of others, who use it mainly for their own benefit."

Possible Murder for Jefferson County.

A dispatch from Punxsutawney says: "Oliver Reese was found dead on a pile of rails beside the railroad track at Anita at an early hour Tuesday morning. There was a long gash in his head, his chest was crushed in, and it is certain that he met a violent death. But whether it was the result of an accident or foul play is not yet known. His injuries could have been caused in the former manner, but there is a suspicion that he was murdered. An investigation is being made by the authorities."

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

When the stomach is overloaded, when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane, exposing the nerves, and causes the glands to secret mucus, instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach. For years I suffered with Catarrh of the Stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.—J. R. Rhea, Coppell, Tex. Sold by Parrish's Drug Store.

Encourage Home Enterprise.

Have a word of encouragement for every one and every enterprise. Become a booster. Don't be a kicker. A Wyoming town was cursed with a class of men who never had a good word for any thing or anybody until finally business became so depressed that grass began to grow in the street. Capital seeking investment side-stepped it and the population dwindled to hamlet size. A business man, daily seeing his property interests depreciating, appealed in vain to the knockers to put away their hammers. This appeal was of no effect, and the man, in a fit of desperation, engaged the opera house and by posters announced that on a certain night the men of the town were invited to come and talk over the situation.

A large crowd was present and after the chairman had roasted the knockers to a brown, announced that he would open a charter for signature of members who desired to join a new order to be known as "The Skunks." He incidentally supplemented his remarks by asserting that the order should start off with a large membership as the town had so many stinkers, and this latter qualification was all that was necessary to be eligible.

The lesson had the desired effect and the town has assumed much of its former business activity.

Knock the Knocker.

Knock the knocker. While this city has probably as few of this undesirable class of people as any town in the state, still the order is presented, and its members always have their little mallet handy to knock against any and every proposition that comes up. It matters not, whether they are interested; a mere suggestion that some public or private scheme is afloat that will contribute to the general prosperity of the camp, when out will come the hammer and more energy will be expended in decrying the enterprise than the knocker would expend in an effort to attend to his own affairs. It does not matter what the business is, the knocker is hopelessly blind to its merits, but can see as through a magnifying glass its most minute defects, both real and imaginary, and takes it upon himself to at once call the public's attention to it and brand it as a delusion and snare. Truth and veracity are handled reckle y to satisfy his destructive tendencies, and he can alone take down in a remarkably short time what has required years to build up. The same amount of energy expended in the line of upbuilding and encouragement for all enterprises would result in a marvelous amount of good to the community and let us hope that the knocker will at once see the error of his ways and turn his attention to the encouragement instead of the discouragement of all enterprises. Knock the knocker.

TWO BOTTLES CURED HIM.

"I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years," writes A. H. Davis, of Mt. Sterling, Ia., "but two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a permanent cure." C. M. Parrish.

It is Doubtful Charity.

The Tyrone Daily Herald truthfully says: "An old soldier was in town Wednesday and Thursday begging for assistance. Just why an old soldier should travel the country begging is a query. Uncle Sam provides amply for the comfortable care of its defenders in the 60s, in case they need to be supported, by throwing wide open the doors of the various soldiers' homes for them. It is doubtful charity to give to a man traveling the country and begging on the plea of having been a soldier."

The Herald might have gone a step further and questioned the charitableness of giving alms to three-fourths of the seekers other than soldiers for the reason that the poor district of the place where they belong is bound by law to throw open its door and maintain them the rest of their days if they are unable to earn a livelihood. In our opinion it would be far more creditable to accept charity where one is entitled to it and spent a quiet beautiful life at a well kept home than to roam over the country begging. The public doesn't seem to think or know that nearly all these wanderers must be taken care of by the poor authorities of the district where they have last held a residence. It is showing the christian spirit to be charitable, but for the sake of self-protection it is well to use a little discrimination as half the charity-dispensers to strangers are "humbugged."

Unquestionably Above Reproach.

Most wines upon the market are adulterated, sugared, watered or cooked. Speer's Wines are endorsed by the leading surgeons and hospital nurses as pure, no adulteration whatsoever. Wonderful for the aged, it prolongs their life.

A Chance to use Your Hands.

There is a fine opportunity at present for our young people to learn to use their hands, and to make use of these summer weeks that pass so quickly. Mr. William Potter and his wife, both skilled artists have started a class twice a week in Milesburg teaching drawing, sketching and modeling, terms moderate. It is hoped they may be encouraged to continue, as such instruction is much needed.

CHICAGO STREETS

Were the Scene of Some Desperate Fighting Between Police and Strikers.

THERE WAS SOME FIRING

In the First Engagement, But in the Second the Officers of the Law Used Their Clubs and Fists.

A NUMBER OF ARRESTS WERE MADE

CHICAGO, July 16.—Desperate fighting between the police and the strikers of the Kellogg Switchboard company took place yesterday afternoon and evening when the company attempted to send freight to some of the railroad depots.

In one instance the police opened fire with revolvers, and although the fusilade was continued for several minutes nobody was injured. Later there was a fight in which no revolvers were used and the police laid out a number of men, some of whom were left in the street until their friends came back and picked them up.

The first fight occurred when a truck loaded with freight, escorted by police, bound for the Burlington depot, was passing an unfinished building at the corner of Harrison and Peoria streets. A mob of a thousand men and boys was following close upon the police and pelting them with stones and sticks. Teamsters, who sympathized with the strikers, managed to get their wagons in the way of the Kellogg company's wagon as it reached Peoria street and caused a blockade.

The police were endeavoring to clear the street when the workmen on the unfinished building showered them with bricks. The officers at once drew their revolvers and fired at the workmen, who hastily fled to the interior of the building. The police kept up their fire through the windows and drove nearly all the workmen from the place. The route to the depot was then taken up and although there were several blockades the wagon reached the depot and the goods were delivered.

The second fight occurred when the police were escorting a wagon load of freight to the warehouse of the Terminal Freight company, at Ogden avenue and Twelfth street. A mob fully 3,000 strong followed this wagon and although the police were outnumbered 100 to 1 they took the wagon safely to the depot. The mob had greatly increased by the time the wagon was ready to make the return trip and for half a mile it pursued, the police, applying to them all sorts of epithets and pelting them with sticks and stones, without, however, injuring any person seriously.

The climax came at Congress street and Ogden avenue, when a private watchman, who had no particular call to mix in the trouble on either side, fired at one of the mob. The shot went wild, but it inflamed the mob to the highest degree and with shouts and yells they charged down on the police. The latter were waiting for the crowd and when it arrived the officers went at it with fists and clubs. They were greatly outnumbered, but they fought well together. Fully a dozen men with broken heads were left lying in the street where they had been knocked by the clubs of the officers. Some of them were loaded into the wagon and taken to the police station, as also was a number who were not quick enough in making their retreat.

The Kellogg company will continue to send out freight every day, and the strikers say they will use every means to prevent their doing so.

The strike, which now has been in progress for a month, was ordered by the Unions because the company refused to sign an agreement to employ Union men exclusively.

—Lock Haven people as a rule do not have flies on them; neither do they have warts, but the town is full of toads. Witness this from the Express of that city: For a few days past the sidewalks in some parts of the city have been swarming with little toads. In many places they are so plentiful that it is almost impossible to walk without crushing them with the feet. Some people think they came down with the rain during the heavy showers the latter part of the week, but it is more probable that they had just been hatched and took advantage of the rainy weather to put in an appearance.

After waiting supper for him for some time the family became alarmed and began a search for him, which was kept up all night, Early the next morning his clothes and dinner bucket were found on the bank of the creek and shortly afterward his dead body was discovered. John Wesley's Presence.

A small man physically, John Wesley had in a remarkable degree that which we call "presence." Men felt, as they heard him speak, and came under the domination of his personality, that he was a man of power. He did not seem small to them. Indeed, he often seemed more than man. Two boys once came to hear him preach, determined to stone him. Their pockets were full of rocks, and they carried stones in each hand. After Wesley began to speak, they stood open-mouthed and wide-eyed for a few moments, and then one dropping his stones, said to his neighbor, "He's not a man! He's not a man!" After the meeting was over, one of the youths stood near a gate where Wesley must go out, and as he passed slowly, the young fellow pinched Wesley's leg through his clothing, and shouted, "He is a man! He is a man! Wesley laid his hand upon the boy's head, and said, "God bless thee, my lad." Afterward this boy became one of the Evangelist's most faithful preachers.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—Wednesday July 15th was the last day for trout fishing.

—Keep things moving. Even a quarrel will die out if not stirred up.

—The dog days are now upon us and will continue until August 22.

—The next legal holiday will be Labor Day, the first Monday in September.

—As continued health is vastly preferable to the happiest recovery from sickness, so is innocence to the truest repentance.

—Great, ever fruitful, profitable for reproof, for encouragement, for building up in manful purposes and works, are the words of those that in their days were men.

—The 1st Brigade camp of the N. G. P., at Perkasie is named "Camp Hastings" in honor of Bellefonte's distinguished citizen ex-Governor Daniel H. Hastings.

—Some fifty or more deaths from tetanus in this state, as the result of 4th of July accidents with toy pistols should convince the public that these weapons are dangerous playthings.

—The habit of blaming others when things go wrong is an insidious and dangerous one. Far more is it the purpose to inquire within whether the fault, or much of it, may not lie at home.

—The house occupied by William Mayhew on the O. B. Ebberts farm 1½ miles east of Port Matilda was totally destroyed by fire on last Sunday together with a large portion of the household goods.

—Language is a solemn thing; it grows out of life—out of its agonies, and ecstasies, its wants and its weariness. Every language is a temple in which the soul of those who speak it is enshrined.

—Lizards an inch in length rained down at Hazleton, Sunday afternoon, during a severe thunderstorm. In some places the lizards were so plentiful that they could be gathered up with a shovel.

—James Commons, of Patton, sold oleomargarine without a license, and it cost him just $100 and cost for his fun. When Pure Food Inspector Foutz gets after a trespasser, he might as well come down without being shot.

—Windber has an 11-year-old girl who recently forged a check for $15 and secured the money on the same. In consideration of her youth and the returned of the money and the payment of the costs by her friends, the prosecutor withdrew the information.

—Although the old saying of "nothing new under the sun" is true to an extent, yet in Mary Emerson's new play, "His Majesty and the Maid," we have new motives, which are worked in an original as well as skillful manner.—it is a strong play, full of incident and action.

—One of the Polanders, who recently went to work at the Bellefonte limestone quarry at Salona, was caught between two cars on Tuesday and was severely squeezed. Dr. Painter, of Mill Hall, gave him the required medical attendance, but reports him to be in a serious condition.

—Frank Wallace and sons of Milesburg are getting in shape to manufacture brick. They have installed new and modern machinery and facilities for an industry of this kind. This family are all practical brickmakers and they are going to make a big effort to put the very best brick on the market. What we need are more industries in Centre county and trust this one will be a great success.

—The jealous woman seldom stops to reason. If she did, she would speedily discover that jealousy is the basest, the meanest of passions; that it is as cruel and relentless as the grave; that it spares nothing, sees nothing except from its own frenzied point of view, and generally has its source in a profound rashness. If the average woman knew how jealousy disfigures the human countenance she would never be jealous any more. It gives her more wrinkles than she can live up to.

—Edward Free, one of last year's graduates at the Bellefonte Academy, and now a student at Cornell has had the exceptional honor conferred upon him of being selected from the Freshman class as a member of Cornell's debating team. It will be remembered that Mr. Free won the Alumni Prize debate at the Academy during his last year here.

—The property recently purchased by W. L. Daggett on East Linn street will soon be ready for occupancy. Many alterations and improvements are being made, a new porch has been placed in front and a new bay window at the east side. Other changes which are in progress will make it one of the finest residences on that street of handsome homes

—The new company E of the Fifth regiment, stationed at Altoona, is getting into shape for business. Captain Roop has announced his non-commissioned officers as follows: First sergeant, J. E. Chapman; second corporal, Howard E. Kirk; third corporal, Harry Cox; fourth corporal, John V. Barnhart; fifth corporal, Sam'l Detwiler; sixth corporal, Frank Young. The Krag-Jorgensen rifles and the other equipments for the company are now in possession of the company.

—Joseph Knapper Jr., the Philipsburg boy who had the Annapolis appointment, has returned to his home, having failed to stand the required test on colors. He passed the mental and physical examinations very satisfactorily.

—The annual Harvest Home picnic will be held on Saturday, July 25th, in the Johnson grove near Pine Hall. It will be in the form of a basket picnic. Everybody is invited to be present and enjoy the annual outing.

—Word has been received from Mrs. Lewis Grauer, who is in Philadelphia, with her little son Edward having his throat treated for swollen glands, that the physician is most sanguine of his recovery and that the boy is doing very well.

—Midshipman Alfred Terry Brisbin, U. S. N. is on Admiral Cotten's flagship, the Kearsarge, and writes from abroad that they have had a glorious time at the evolutions at Kiel, where they entertained the German Emperor and were entertained in return. They are now in English waters, where the international fetes are being continued.

From an eight acre field 21 loads were taken to the barns, or an average of 3½ tons per acre by weight. It is well known that two tons per acre is a good yield and the average for the State is about 1½ tons per acre.

—The Presbyterian Manse at Milesburg during this month is being occupied by Rev. J. T. Scott and family. Rev. Scott is supplying the Presbyterian congregation at Milesburg and Jacksonville very acceptably during the absence of their pastor, Rev. W. F. BANNER SALVE the most healing salve in the world.
C. M. Parrish.

—The birthday anniversary of Mrs. Rebecca Burnside has for a number of years been marked as a very pleasant assembling of old friends. Although more quietly observed this year than usual, it was sufficient to prove the fallacy of the old superstition of ill luck attendant upon the number thirteen, for we would all wish to have been born on the thirteenth of July could we, when passing the eightieth milestone of our lives, be as sure of pleasant home surroundings and many loyal friends as is Mrs. Burnside. To good fortune alone, however, such envied possessions must not always be attributed, but to the personality which has won them and retained them for more years than an ordinary lifetime. When young and beautiful a friend does not count for as much as when we must be proud only of years and the grace with which we carry them.

It is a great affliction for a woman to have her face disfigured by pimples or any form of eruptive disease. It makes her morbid and sensitive, and robs her of social enjoyment. Disfiguring eruptions are caused by impure blood, and are entirely cured by the great blood-purifying medicine—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It removes from the blood the poisonous impurities which cause disease. It perfectly and permanently cures scrofulous sores, eczema, tetter, boils, pimples and other eruptive diseases which are caused by the blood's impurity. It increases the action of the blood-making glands and thus increases the supply of pure rich blood.

"For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 116 West Main Street, Battlecreek, Mich. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements in a paper, and obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book containig 1008 pages, is given away. Send 21 one-cent stamps for expense of mailing only, for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the volume bound in cloth. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—From the way the chestnuts trees are blossoming there is every appearance of a large crop of the brown nuts next fall.

—Every day something happens to demonstrate the folly and the rashness of those who persist in using the railroad for a common highway.

—Morris Furey was admitted to the Bellefonte Hospital this week suffering from blood poisoning. He is reported as getting along nicely.

—Intemperance is the mother of many miseries and of some crimes. The young man who wishes to win his way in the world and who means to succeed, must be a devotee of sobriety.

—The dog-days began Monday and will continue forty-one days or until August 22nd There is a general superstition that during this period dogs are more vicious than at any other time of the year

—John Dawson, of Half Moon hill, was quite seriously injured Sunday. He and Albert Schad were trying to see who could jump the farthest when Dawson in some manner injured himself internally.

—William Holloway of Orangeville, Ill., is visiting Centre county friends at present. Mr. Holloway was born in Aaronsburg and when the war broke out he enlisted in the 148th Regiment and served to the end, after which he located in Illinois and is now the owner of 220 acres of choice farming land.

—Train master R. B. Freeman, of the Tyrone division, entertained a party of thirty at the Nittany country club this week. His guests are from other cities. Among the gentlemen are W. L. Hicks, Esq., T. C. Poorman, C. B. Roland and William Scullin.

—There is a likelihood that Rev. H. H. Weber, D. D., general secretary of the board of Lutheran church extension, will be elected president of the Pennsylvania College, at Gettysburg. The institution has been without a head since the resignation of Dr. McKnight.

—Miss Mame Ceader entertained a party of twenty-four young ladies at her home on North Allegheny street Thursday evening. Sometime during the evening some bad boys stole a freezer of ice cream. They are known and unless they mend their ways they will land in the penitentiary.

—In answer to a petition presented by the lawyers practising at the Centre county bar Judge Love has just handed down a decree ordering the postponement of all cases scheduled to be tried at the second week of the August term of court. As many of the lawyers expect to be away and the weather is expected to be hot the business of that week has been called off and the jurors notified not to appear.

—Tuesday night of last week Mr. and Mrs. Gust Allen, arrived in Bellefonte with their little baby boy from Pitcairn. They took it to the home of Mrs. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roberts, and the following day they went to Mr. Allen's parents at Holts Hollow. The child had been sick but on Sunday it died. It was only four months old and the funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon. Interment in the Union cemetery.

—One day last week while Jacob Stover, of Haines township, was unloading hay at his barn his four-year-old son caught hold of the pulley attached to the hay rope and his hand was drawn into the machinery. The hand was released as soon as possible and from its profuse bleeding it was thought that it was crushed. Dr. G. S. Frank was immediately sent for, who after examining the wound, found the lad but slightly hurt.

—The wear and tear of gaining industrial leadership for this country have brought into being social conditions which will have to be dealt with seriously by-and-by, if not at once, The most noteworthy of these is that of the unskilled laborer—the man without a trade. His struggle to keep up with his more accomplished brother presents one of the pathetic phrases of the industrial race. And the reports of those who work to assist and uplift the poor, show there is much suffering because men not accomplished in the skilled branches of labor cannot find employment to which they are equal.

—The most beautiful and graceful craft which ever floated on the bosoms of our broad rivers was the light birch or pine canoe of the Indians. It was the true swallow among boats, a neat trim craft, with easy power of motion great speed, and a remarkable carrying capacity. It was simple in construction and quite durable, considering its lightness. But it has gone forever from these waters. Many long years have gone since the last one was seen in this part of the country and never will there be seen another. The thought is pathetic, but modern things win out in all ages. They were typical of their age and makers.

—Some fellows can no more keep out of debt than other fellows can help falling in love.

—When a man has reached honored distinction he is apt to wonder if he really deserved it.

—The venerable David Keller, of Boalsburg, who is in his 87th year is reported as quite ill.

—The Bellefonte Republican will be sent five months on trial for the insignificant sum of 25 cents.

—A valuable horse belonging to Dr. George F. Harris died at the Palace Livery stable on Monday.

—The annual re-union and grand lodge meeting of the Order of Elks will be held this week at Baltimore, Md.

—A heavy wind and rain storm passed down by Zion on Saturday morning knocking the oats and corn as flat as if a roller had passed over them.

—One of mail carrier Woodrings little children was so badly hurt on Tuesday that a physican was called in to attend to the wound in his head which was caused by a fall.

—John M. Ward, our own famous "Monte," the former well known ball player, Saturday afternoon at Long Branch, won the president's cup at the Hollywood Golf club, making a score of 40 out and 40 in and beating Arthur Lehman six up and six to play.

—At Jersey Shore Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock the corner stone of the new Trinity Mission was laid with impressive exercises. The services were conducted by Archbishop Heakes of Williamsport. Rev. George C. Foley of Trinity Episcopal church, Williamsport, delivered an address.

—A careful examination of the trees that are struck by lightning shows that over half of them are poplar. From this fact scientists conclude that the poplar has some value as a conductor of lightening. Therefore agriculturists are advised to plant these trees in the vicinity of their farm buildings.

—Robert Leeparid, the little son of Mr. J. T. Leepard, of East Lamb street, met with a painful accident Thursday evening. He was climbing a fence and was in his bare feet when he slipped and fell and ran a splinter beneath the nail the full length of his toe. It was necessary to call in a physician and the child had to be etherzed before the splinter could be removed.

—Lock Haven Democrat: Glenn, son of Calvin Rover, of Porter township, met with an accident this forenoon which will disfigure him for life. While near a horse the animal raised one of its hind hoofs and dealt the young man a vicious kick in the face, tearing and cutting the flesh so that some of the facial bones were laid bare.

—Rev. George F. Boggs, of Howard, Centre county, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, Mill Hall, was painfully hurt in an accident while driving. One of the wheels came off the buzzy which frightened the horse and threw the reverend gentleman to the ground. The horse stepped upon his leg and bruised him in other ways.

—The Cottage State hospital at Greensburg has the honor of successfully treating a case of lockjaw. Eugene Kennedy, a lad aged 9, was wounded in the hand by a toy pistol on the Fourth of July and in a short time tetanus developed. Now he had almost recovered from the disease and his condition is improving every day. The physicians started the treatment with ten grain doses of chloral, an amount that a few years ago would have been thought surely fatal, After controlling the spasms with this drug, antitetanic serum was used during the action of the spasms.

—William H. Prichard, of Pittsburg, a traveling salesman who filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District court at Pittsburg Thursday, has liabilities of $60,795.88 and assets of only $124. The bulk of the liabilities are claims against the Ohio Gum company, in which Prichard had 300 shares of stock at $50 per share. The Ohio law makes the stockholders in corporations individually liable to the extent of double the amount of capital stock held by them. Under the law Prichard is responsible for $30,000 of the claims against the Ohio Gum company, or twice the $15,000 of his stock in that concern.

—James McKee, of Pittsburg, who is visiting relatives here, had quite an experience the other day while out bicycle riding. He was coming in from Axe Mann with some companions and they were doing some scorching. Along the road they met a man driving a bull. The animal did not take kindly to the riders and started to chase them. All escaped except James whom the bull succeeded in striking. James was knocked off his wheel and badly bruised and his bicycle completely wrecked. He was compelled to walk to Bellefonte but was lucky in escaping further molestation by his majesty "the bull."
